

Are you ready for your Jehr cut?

Gentry has followed JEHR SCHIAVO's hair-cutting career over the years, privy as we were to his launch seemingly eons ago now. Like the spirit Garagashka, he appears and disappears at will and those who are clever enough can arrange a meeting before the fleeting spirit disappears again. He travels around the world cutting hair using scissors and water only. If you're lucky enough to catch him whilst he's here, you'll be delighted you did. From January 16 – 24, 2016, Jehr will be at the Hotel Kabuki located at 1625 Post Street. Subsequently, he'll show up there every 8 weeks for another 8-day run. Tell him Gentry sent you. T. 310.601.6116

TEE to TABLE

Silicon Valley's movers and shakers will come together for a round of golf and an evening of much needed fundraising for type 1 diabetes (T1D) research.

On March 18, the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF) Greater Bay Area Chapter will host the second annual Tee to Table event, bringing prominent business leaders and families from around the Bay Area to The Ritz-Carlton, Half Moon Bay. At the event, the Chisholm family—including Bill, Kimberly, Will, Aidan, and Quentin—will be honored with the JDRF Greater Bay Area Chapter Impact Award for their exceptional commitment to the JDRF mission to accelerate life-changing breakthroughs to cure, prevent, and treat T1D and its complications.

The Chisholms were introduced to JDRF in 2009 when Will was diagnosed with T1D at the age of 12. They have been involved with the Half Moon Bay event for years, with Kimberly serving on the committee, the kids volunteering, or the family sponsoring a table. From 2010 – 2013, Kimberly served on the JDRF Bay Area Executive Board as VP of Research and as VP of Major Gifts. During her tenure, she also wrote the weekly blog “Lessons Earned: Science, Struggles, and Type 1 Diabetes” for the JDRF Bay Area website, which attracted many followers and was syndicated on other chapter websites. In 2013, Will was selected to serve as a California delegate for the JDRF Children's Congress in Washington, D.C. There, he met face to face with some of the top decision makers in the U.S. government to ask for federal funding of T1D research. Aidan, at the age of 11 and 12, produced two fashion shows, “Fawn Fashion,” which raised more than $12,000 for JDRF. “JDRF is only what it is because of volunteers like the Chisholm family,” notes Bre Colella, Tee to Table Chair. “Each member of the family continuously gives their time and energy, firmly believing that JDRF is the organization that will create a world without T1D. The impact that the Chisholm family has had on JDRF is both impressive and inspirational.”

Nationally renowned television reporter Stone Phillips will emcee the event. The day will begin with a golf scramble on the Ocean Course and a 24-person round-robin tennis tournament, followed by cocktails, a gourmet dinner, live auction, grand prize giveaway, and dancing. For tickets and more information, please call 415.671.7986. ♦
